

Fine Quality Gives Satisfaction

"Fresh from the Gardens"

Economic News In Fashion

Periodically, organizations throughout the country pass resolutions deploring the treatment of certain news by the public press, but as a rule, none of the resolutions (and the motive behind them) for the simple reason that the press itself is the finest barometer of public opinion. Newspapers could not survive did they not interpret what the public wants to know, and it is not for the fact they keep a wary finger on the flickering pulse of the public reading public they serve. The success of a daily paper depends on its ability to give the public what it wants. That is why circulation has become the criterion of success in the newspaper field.

Before 1920, nobody cared much, but when the news of the day of the newspaper must have with them. Hence, news fashion changes, and changes as they appear in the columns of the daily press. A week or two ago, H. R. Knickerbocker, well-known European correspondent of the Hearst organization, arrived in England to write a series of articles for Harper's on the economic recovery of Great Britain.

One of his articles, in fact, has been the public demand for economic news. Before 1920, nobody cared much, but when the news of the day of the newspaper must have with them. Hence, news fashion changes, and changes as they appear in the columns of the daily press.

Students of newspaper trends had been struck with this popularization of economic news in the British press, particularly through the writings of Walter Lippman, perhaps the most famous of all the commentators of economic news. In Canada, the same trend has been noticed and has been remarked, the manifestations of which, perhaps, have been more subtle.

Recent provincial elections in British Columbia and Saskatchewan, especially, have demonstrated clearly that the public is more eager to obtain economic news than it has been in the past. This is a fact which has been recognized by the public, and has been recognized by the public, and has been recognized by the public.

This is a fact which has been recognized by the public, and has been recognized by the public, and has been recognized by the public. This is a fact which has been recognized by the public, and has been recognized by the public, and has been recognized by the public.

New political movements, too, have had their genesis in economic distress. The fact is it is only natural that economic discussion should attract attention. Federal Assistance To Provinces For Relief To Continue For Month

Ottawa.—Dominion government officials are preparing to continue the direct relief work to be continued until the end of the month of 20 per cent of the total Dominion-provincial conference has been held on July 10, 1935. The conference will discuss ways and means of dealing with the situation in future.

Announcement of this move was made by Hon. Sir George Perry, minister of finance, at a meeting of cabinet council. Telegraphic advice was sent to all provincial governments advising them of the move and their representatives to attend the conference.

Some months ago the provinces were advised that federal contributions to direct relief costs would end on June 15. This move was later extended to July 15. This extension announced Friday means a slight decrease in the share to be borne by the Dominion treasury which now pays one-third of the total.

The following figures are set out at all provincial premises: "The government has been giving most careful consideration to the question of direct relief and is of the opinion that it should not be continued indefinitely. In any case the remedy for it is greatly lessened by the increase of the interest on the loans and therefore it imposes a lighter load on the Dominion. The government has decided to contribute 20 per cent of the cost of direct relief for the next month and to contribute 20 per cent. As this question of relief is a most important one, we ask that you should meet at all provincial capitals a meeting here on Monday, July 15, for the purpose of discussing the matter and dealing with this serious matter. If you cannot come you may send a delegate and a representative."

Has Ingenious Idea

Man In England Announces Use For Old Razor Blades

There is one man at least who has an effective solution for the problem of hundreds of families—what to do with old razor blades.

Moreover, he is prepared to take other people's old razor blades and use them in the great quantities of them. Mr. M. J. Harvey, borough surveyor of London, England, has the idea.

Mr. Harvey has his lot in the ingenious idea of using safety razor blades as a material for the wheels of a new Military tank.

Mr. Harvey's device is a tank that moves and that moves more than are strung on end to a long wire, which is pulled through the water and—good-by, wheels! The device has been found to be effective and there is no need to be in the canal and the old method of disposal from a barge has been dispensed with.

Library Is Popular

People In English Cotton Town Are Great Readers

Great Harwood, the cotton town near Blackburn, England, claims the highest ratio of book borrowers in any town in the country.

Of the 1787 inhabitants, more than 6,000 are registered borrowers of the local branch of the county library.

Membership has increased twice since the library was opened three years ago, and so great is the demand on the service that the question of a special library has been raised.

The premises are now a scene of borrowers waiting outside the library doors.

It is only a small wooden building and people have to take their turn in waiting for the books to be issued.

During the last twelve months 350,000 books have been issued.

Exhibition Scholarships

Manitoba Man Wins Scholarship Awarded In 1931

Ernest Macdonald, M.Sc., Ph.D., in degree of Dauphin, Man., has been awarded an 1881 exhibition scholarship, entitling him to two or three years' study abroad. It was announced by Dr. J. C. Matthews, McGill University registrar.

The exhibition scholarships, founded by the surplus funds of the 1881 exhibition in London, enables the holder to pursue special studies in his own or in a foreign country for a period of two years and in special cases, three years.

There was no winter injury on prairie trees at Vineland, Ont., which had been sprayed each year for nine years with a 20 per cent. solution of lime sulphur in the control of the pest.

Start On Strange Quest

Manycountries Searching For Remains Of Fabled Civilization In Labrador

Junior Hird, a 36-year-old New York archaeologist, and his wife of a few weeks planned an unusual expedition this summer.

They are hunting for remains of an ancient Eskimo civilization in the vicinity of Repulse, Labrador, with hopes of uncovering more about the Norwegians who were the first to discover North America.

Both are accustomed to visiting far-off places. Mr. Hird has been a member of several expeditions under the patronage of the American Museum of Natural History and the Hudson's Bay Company.

His first last year was a voluntary work with the Greenland expedition.

"While we hope to come upon traces of the Norwegians, it is a rather remote possibility," stated Mr. Hird. "We do know, however, that the country near Repulse abounds in the remains of Eskimo habitations. We hope to bring back enough material to use as New York to place together heretofore unconnected fragments in the history of the Eskimo race."

The American Museum of Natural History is supporting the expedition, and the couple will remain in Labrador until September.

Boat Driven By Car

Idea Being Tried Out On Thames In England

A strange craft was seen undered during trials on the Thames recently at Putney, England. It consisted of a large, flat-bottomed punt containing a motor car.

The car, from which the punt is driven, is motor power.

Persons are seated in the rear where the car, which are jacked up at the bottom of the punt, and there, when, set revelling with the running of the car engine, cause the punt to drive the water.

The motor has only to drive his car on to the punt and couple up.

Little Journeys In Science

The Living Cell (By Gordon H. Gunt, M.A.)

Dr. Robert Hooke, an English biologist, wrote the account for the "living cell of the cell." It was about the beginning of the 17th century.

This scientist, while examining a piece of cork under the early microscope, discovered the existence of the cell.

It was made up of a number of about 100 cells, which were arranged in a regular pattern.

These scientists came to study these cells and it was not until one hundred and fifty years later that Brown and Dujardin commenced to study the cell.

These scientists saw that an aggregation of very small cells, which were independent of each other, contained a substance which was still a mystery.

Science knows that the matter and, for example, contain the same matter as the contents of the cell. Food comes in the cells of living organisms, and it is a mystery.

When examined under the microscope the cells seem to consist of a nucleus and a cytoplasm. But the latter being a more or less viscous translucent material. The nucleus is held together by a protective membrane which is similar to the cell membrane.

It is a fact that the cell is a complex organism, however, we sometimes find that this membrane is not so perfect as the cell membrane.

portance are here issuing excerpts from the Alberta Provincial Legislature Report, so that the citizens will be able to judge whether it is possible or not for any system of Social Credit to be introduced in Alberta. The first of the series will be found on page one, and will be continued in our next issue.

Recent graduates of the provincial normal schools and universities, as well as those of several years ago, are assuming the responsibility for teaching vacancies. Many will apply but few will be chosen, because of the present state of the teaching profession is woefully over-crowded. But, nevertheless, the normal schools will remain in the fall and still another big bite in the taxpayers' wallet. And next year another surplus of teachers will have been created.

Education is important, although expensive, but there is no reason why the normal schools should maintain two normal schools to provide an already over-crowded profession. The principle was laid down by teachers were scarce and a young woman stood liable to be used of educational facilities. It is a waste of money to maintain two normal schools there would be for a few schools will remain in the provincial college, one, operated by the division of British Columbia. The system has served the purpose for some time, and it is not reasonable to reason why the over-crowding should be perpetuated.

During the last week of June this year, the Liberal Party of Canada met in the city of Vancouver for its annual conference which was being held at the Vancouver Convention Centre.

The object of the conference was to elect a new executive committee, and to discuss the future of the party in British Columbia.

The conference was held at the Vancouver Convention Centre, and was attended by a large number of delegates from all over the province.
